State Superintendent Burmaster issues statement on election

MADISON—State Superintendent Elizabeth Burmaster issued the following statement on the election of the next state superintendent.

“I extend my congratulations to Tony Evers on being elected Wisconsin’s next state superintendent of public instruction. During the campaign, Tony displayed the passion and thoughtfulness of a strong Wisconsin educator and leader, and I am confident he will work to continue Wisconsin’s tradition of providing excellent educational opportunities to all students.

“I look forward to working with Tony over the next few months to assist him as he transitions into office. There is much work to be done in the state budget process and with federal recovery and reinvestment funds to ensure a quality education for every student in Wisconsin.”
